Submit your script to win a $1500 stipend and pitch meetings with industry professionals in Los Angeles.

Two winners will be announced by June 1

 Scripts and nomination forms due by 5pm Friday, May 12, 2017.

Robert Foshko

Bob Foshko taught screenwriting and television production at UT's Radio-TV-Film department for almost three decades. He built RTF's screenwriting curriculum, launched its graduate writing program, and guided the education and careers of countless students. Prior to his time at UT, Bob had a successful career in television during its first "Golden Age", working with luminaries such as Lew Wasserman, Jackie Gleason, Peggy Lee, Rod Serling, Alfred Hitchcock and many others. He also wrote stories for the seminal pulp magazine ARGOSY, as well as comic strips like FLASH GORDON. Bob and his wife Sally established this scholarship to help support the kinds of screenwriting students he taught and mentored so well during his many years of service at the University of Texas.

ELEGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

- Scripts must have been written for an RTF screenwriting course during the Spring '16 semester or later.
- Only feature-length screenplays and TV pilot scripts qualify. No TV specs will be considered.
- Screenplays must not have been previously submitted for past Longhorn Showcase Script Competition consideration.
- Winners of previous Longhorn Showcase Script Competitions are ineligible.

SUBMISSION PROCESS

- Email a pdf copy of screenplay with title, name, and contact info on title page. Send to: rtf-submissions@austin.utexas.edu with the subject line: 2017 Fosko Script Contest - [YOUR NAME].
- Complete attached nomination form. For consideration, the RTF screenwriting faculty member who supervised the class in which you wrote the script MUST sign the nomination form.
- Turn in signed nomination form — either as a hard copy to Elana Wakeman's mailbox in the RTF department office (CMA 6.120A) or electronically (scan and send via email to rtf-submissions@austin.utexas.edu).
